The Humble Defires

OF THE

Commissioners in Scotland

W^Eare Your Majesties humble and faithfull Subjects, Considering that the mutuall relation betwixt Your Majesties Kingdome of Scotland and Eng^tland and the N^orth of Ireland is such, as they must stand or fall together, and the disturbances of the one, must needs diminish and distemper the Peace of the other, as hath beene oftene acknowledged by them both: And especially in the late Treatie which is ratified in Parliament, and confirmed by the publike Faith of the Estates of Your Majesties Ancient and Nauue Kingdome of Scotland, So that they are bound to mainaine the Peace and Liberties of one another, being highly concerned therein, as the assured meanes of the safety and preservation of your own : And finding our selves warranted and obliged by all meanes to labour to keepe a right understanding betwixt the two Your Majestie and Your People, to conserue that brotherly affection begun betwixt the two Nations, to advance their Unitie by all such wayes as may tend to the glory of God, and the peace of the Church and state of both Kingdomes. And likewise to proffer our service for removing all Jealousies and mislakings which may arise betwixt Your Majestie and this Kingdome, and our best indeavours for the better establishment of the Affaires and quiet of the same: That both Your Majesties Kingdomes of Scotland and England may be United in the enjoying of the Liberties and Peace under Your Majesties Scepter, which is the most assured foundation of Your Majesties Honour and Greatnesse, and of the securitie of Your Royal Person, Whereas it is manifeste taken the said M^oneth to shew Your Majesties wherth We are ver tly sorry and grieved to behold these discontents, which increase daily betweene Your Majestie and the people, And which we doubtless have arising by the wicked blots and misfaylures of the late, and in their valtheght, whose sinnes caused these Troubles, hath beene not onely to prevent all further

Wth the Reformation, but also to subvert the purity of Religion within all Your Majesties King-domes; For which end, their constant endeavours have beeke to stirre up division between Your Ma-jestie and Your People; by the questioning the Authority of Parliaments, and the lawfull Liberties of the Subjects, and really weakening Your Majesties Power and Authority Royall, upon pretence of defending the same. Whereof, by Gods providence, being disappoinred in Your Majesties Kingdome of Scotland, they have now converted their mischievous counsels, conspiracies, and attempts to produce these distempers in Your Majesties Kingdome of England and Ireland. And therefore according to our duty to Your Majesty, to settlie our brotherly affection to these Kingdomes; and to quit our selves of the trust imposed on us; We do make offer of our humble endeavours for composing these differences. And to that purpose do beseeche Your Majesty in these extremities, to have recourse to the sound and faith-full advice of the Honourable Houses of Parliament.
And to repose thereupon, as the onely assured and happy meane to establish the prosperity and quiet of this Kingdome. And in the depth of Your Royall Wisedome, to consider and prevent these apprehensions of fear, which may possess the hearts of Your Majesties Subjects in Your other Kingdomes, if they shall conceive the authority of Parliaments, and the Rights and Liberties of the Subject to be here called in question: And we are confident, if Your Majesty shall be graciously pleased to take in good part, and give ear to these our faithfull and humble desires.

that the success of Your Majesties affaires, how soever now perplexed, shall be happy to Your Majestie, and joyfull to all Your People; over whom that Your Majesty may long and prosperously raigne, is the constant and fervent prayer of us,

Your Majesties faithfull Subjects and Servants.

THE House of Commons having considered, both that Paper given in to them from the Scottish Commissioners upon Saturday last, as likewise their advice lately given to His Majesty, by occasion of these present troubles, which at the entreaty of the said House, they have communicated to them, and finding therein a large testimony of fidelity to the King, of affection to the State, and of wisedome for the honour, security, and peace of His Majesty, and both Kingdoms, doth hereby declare that they have herein done that which is not onely very acceptable to this House, but likewise that which is of great advantage to both Nations. And therefore have ordered, That Sir Philip Stapleton, M. Hampden, M. Fynes, M. Pym, M. Arthur Goodwin, M. Long, Sir Henry Vane Junior, or any three of them, shall return them very hearty and affectionate thanks in the name of this House. And this House doth further desire them, That according to their affections already expressed, they will continue their care and endeavours to remove the present distractions amongst us, as also to preserve and confirm the Union between the two Nations so happily begun.
